NOTE.—According to another there was a great hunter of the name of Newdigate living at Newdigate in Surrey at the time of the Conquest, or thereabouts. This is only tradition, but nevertheless accounts of what of the family remained in this parish could at Hartford Church in, on Middlesex, which came into the family in 1351 by marriage with an heiress. Pedigrees commencingly need of most of the members of the family beginning with John Newdigate living in 1560. There was an earlier branch of the family living at Newdigate, co. Surrey, the original home of the family. This branch becomes extinct about 1600, but received given bearing the Newdigate arms and no crescent, many of which are defaced, still in Newdigate Church. The arms of Newdigate was changed by the Hertford branch of the family but Newdigate; in all probability was distinctive to the branch of the family settling at Newdigate, by the wife of Sir Roger Newdigate, Bart., and the late Rt. Hon. C. N. Newdigate, whosoever succeeds to the Arbury estate takes the name of Newdigate in addition to, or in lieu of that of Mordaunt." The Newdigates of the Hartshill and Arbury branch, another form given above, with the addition of a crest: four de lis Arg.
